

Safety Tip of the Week

Thanksgiving Travel Safety

AFRH Safety Office reminds you while auto accidents are a risk any time you get behind the wheel, the increased traffic on the road for Thanksgiving coupled with alcohol consumption makes car crashes more likely.

If you are considering hitting the road and making a long-distance road trip to visit extended family for Thanksgiving, remember these recommended safety tips:

THANKSGIVING SAFETY

T

Take breaks and rotate drivers during long trips.

Remember, all that turkey will make you tired on the way home.

U

Use a tire gauge to test tire pressures before traveling.

Refer to the suggested PSI rating for your vehicle and tires.

R

Replenish your fuel tank BEFORE traveling long distances.

Before you fill your belly, fill your car.

K

Keep an emergency preparedness kit and supplies in your trunk.

Store valuables out of sight in the trunk, as well.

E

Eliminate distractions while driving.

Eating and socializing should happen at the table, not behind the wheel.

Y

You are the best gift you can give your family this holiday season.

Give them something to be thankful for on Thursday.

Be Safe and enjoy the festive Holiday!
